

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

Dan Apăteanu, PhD, is lecturer at the University of Oradea, Department of Political Science and Communication. Email: danapateanu@yahoo.com.

Andrea Crescenzi is researcher at the Institute for International Legal Studies (ISGI-CNR) in Rome, Italy. Since 2004 and he has been carrying out his research activities in international law field, with specific experience in international human rights law (migrants, people disabilities, discrimination). Contact: andrea.crescenzi@cnr.it.

Réka Friedery is a research fellow at the Department of European Union Law and International Law at the Centre for Social Sciences. Her fields of excellence include European law. She gained experience in studying the governance, processes and consequences of mobility (free movement, migration), accountability, citizens' participation in the EU. Contact: reka.friedery@tk.hu.

Marcelo Alejandro Piffaut Gálvez is a third-year Ph.D. candidate at Kyoto University. He obtained his bachelor's degree in Anthropology from Universidad Austral de Chile in 2014 and earned his master's degree in Educational Studies from Kyoto University in 2021. His ongoing research at Kyoto University focuses on International Migration Studies, East Asia International Immigration, Hispano-American communities in East Asia, and media and educational studies related to migration. Contact: marcelopiffautgalvez@gmail.com.

Carlos S. Ibarra is a postdoctoral fellow at El Colegio de la Frontera Norte's Department of Population Studies. As an anthropologist with a PhD in Cultural Studies, he has coordinated fieldwork efforts on different research projects exploring religious change and migration. Ibarra specializes in emerging religious identities, youth studies, conservative rationales and migration. His current research focuses on mental health among refugees, migrants, and deportees. Contact: cibarradesc2016@colef.mx.

Arturo Fabián Jiménez is a postdoctoral fellow at the University of Guadalajara, Mexico. Holding a degree in Communication and a PhD in Cultural Studies from El Colegio de la Frontera Norte, his research predominantly centers on Chicanos and deported Mexicans from the US, shedding light on their experiences and narratives. Contact: postnomadicmx@gmail.com.

Joshua M. Pearce is the Thompson Chair in Information Technology and Innovation and holds appointments at Ivey Business School and the Department of Electrical & Computer Engineering at Western University in Canada. He runs the Free Appropriate Sustainability Technology research group. He is the editor-in-chief of HardwareX, the first journal dedicated to open source scientific hardware and the author of the Open-Source Lab: How to Build Your Own Hardware and Reduce Research Costs, and Create, Share, and Save Money Using Open-Source Projects. Contact: joshua.pearce@uwo.ca.

Rodolfo Cruz Piñeiro is a researcher at El Colegio de la Frontera Norte. He holds a PhD in Sociology from the University of Texas in Austin and is a member of the Mexican National Research System since 1992. He has been President of the Mexican Society of Demography and a member of the Consultive Council of the National Institute of Migration, among others. Contact: rcruz@colef.mx.

Irina Pop, PhD, is a Lecturer at the Department of Political Science and Communication Sciences at the University of Oradea. Her main research interest revolves around xenophobia <https://www.comxen.ro/proiect> legal and illegal migration, and identity. She currently works on EU founded research project Sliding Doors <https://slidomigration.eu/en/activities-calendar/training/> concerning migration in the EU. Contact: popirinamihaela@gmail.com.

Jun-Yu Qian is earned his degree in mechanical engineering in Michigan Technological University in Houghton, MI, USA and is pursuing research in open source technologies.

Javier Toscano (PhD in Political Philosophy) is an interdisciplinary researcher in the fields of migrant studies and political philosophy. He has published a number of peer-reviewed articles and was awarded the Mouton d'Or Prize in 2019 from the Semiotica Journal, for the best article on the field that year. He is currently a guest researcher at CAIS (Center for Advanced Internet Studies, Bochum, Germany) and at the CAS SEE (Center for Advanced Studies, South East Europe, University of Rijeka, Croatia). Contact: tosgue@yahoo.com.

Sanam Vaghefi is a sociologist with a Ph.D. from the University of Victoria in Canada, and a Visiting Scholar at Ibn Haldun University in Istanbul, Turkiye. In addition to refugee migration, asylum seekers, and migrant mental health, her research interests include performances of agency during the migration trajectories, as well as victim-villain-savior narratives surrounding the representation of migrants in various international contexts. Contact: sanemvaghefi@gmail.com.